Horses have been an integral part of the human experience since their domestication more than 5,000 years ago. Horses have shouldered our burdens, shared our history and shaped our mythology.

Tapping into the long-standing connection between humans and horses, Creative Spark Studio is proud to announce the addition of our new Equine Facilitated Integrative Healing Program. With elements of Equine-Assisted Psychotherapy (EAP), Equine-Assisted Learning (EAL) and expressive arts practices, our program utilizes horses to create powerful metaphors that mirror our relationships with others and ourselves.

With the professional guidance of Susan Gibbs and Sheri Gaynor, you are invited consider these metaphors to gain insight into unconscious patterns and ways of relating. As awareness surfaces within the equine setting, the therapists – and “the herd” – present opportunities for participants to work toward integration, personal growth and healing.

Facilitators

SHERI GAYNOR, LCSW, REAT. Founder of Creative Spark Studio, Sheri sat on her first horse at age three and quickly fell in love. She learned first hand the power and intuitive connection between horses and their human partners. Sheri weaves the creative process work into the experience with the herd, to support clients in processing the magical language of the unconscious.

SUSAN GIBBS. Susan is a co-owner of SG Horses. She is a life-long horsewoman, horse trainer and riding instructor. She is happy to bring the gift of horse wisdom to our clients and students.

CERTIFICATIONS. Sheri and Susan are both EAGALA certified. EAGALA is the premier professional association providing education, standards, and support for professionals providing EAP and EAL.
